Three Months Ago He Bought the Pistol With Which He Killed His Aged Partner.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.) RALEIGH, N. C., January 3 .- The capture in Gates county, at the home of his sister, of R. D. Bynum, the Raleigh printer, who murdered his aged partner, James H. Alford, gives much pleasure to all the officials, from Governor Ayoock down, the Governor having offered $300 for Bynum's capture. The crime episodes. Bynum could have been arrested almost on the instant by a policeman, who saw him, being vory near by, but who went to the police station and siked for a police captain, thus giving the murderer time to get away.

Bynum hurried to the house of his cousin, a lawyer named Gatlin, who for several years had been county attorney, and a hurried call for Gattin was sent by telephone from the latter's house. Then Bynum and Gatlin ran Lugsther from the house through the country and into one road leading seuthenst; then turned and went north to one leading northeast, Gatlin returning to the southeast road and thence coming back to Raleigh, while the murderer, who had been furnished with funds, walked forty miles to Tarboro, where he lived a Lugsy and drove to Scotland Nosk, thrity five miles further, there hiding in the woods for twelve hours to further divert suspicion, and then taking a train to Gates county, where he was captured by the sheriff at the home of a clister.

When captured he had plenty of money and three suits or new clothing. The officials think it was his purpose to quickly leave Gates county and to go to Norrolk, which is a notable place of refuge for North Carolina criminals. Bynum will be tried for murder in the first degree, and there are intimations that his defense will be self-defense.

He has been drinking heavily for months, and his wife had been afraid of him. Three months ago he bought a pistol, which he did not take out of the house until the morning when he walked to the printing establishment and shot down his partner. The sheriff says he does not antilepate any trouble when Bynum is brought backeping, Governor Aycock having for the first time allowed this course to be taken.

LETTER TO JAS. T. COSEY,

Richmond, Va.

Dear Sir: We suspect you'd like the tale, how a woman beat two hardware dealers in Girard, Pa.

We tried our best to get those men, to sell Devoe lead-and-zine in that bright town; and failed. Reluctantly took Mrs. E. R. Bowman, druggist.

They said Ahey couldn't sell paint for more than $1.25 a gallon. Mrs. Bowman can. She has sold about all the paint, that has been sold there since.

She knew Devoe; had sold our artists' materials. Had some sonse and force, besides; she easily learned that cheap is doar in paint, and told the people.

Mr. Burt Young bought a gallon Devoe for rooms that had always taken a gallon of other paint; had half left.

Mr. E. H. Hiler, jeweler, painted Devoe, and says it goes further—no particulars.

Mr. John Hanna, grocer, thought it exulars.

Mr. John Hanna, grocer, thought it expensive before he bought it; brought back rearly half of his paint, and said it was the cheapest job he ever had.

Mrs. Bowman reports universal satisfaction. So much for a cheap-paint town with a bright woman in it.

Yours truly,

Ralph Rose, the young giant of the University of Michigan, who holds the record for putting the shot, and who established a new world's record at the Pastine A. C. games at Madison Square Garden Saturday night, has returned to the college at Ann Arbor.

The great athlete was in the best of moods vesterday, and before he started for his train, granted a reporter for the World a long interview bearing upon his success in athletica. Rose explained in a nutshell that trairing with a view to developing the nuscless used in shot putting was the secret of his success in that particular branch of sport.

"I do not mean by this statement," said Rose, "that I neglect the training of one set of muscless for another, but that I have brought my training down to a selence, I have studied the anatomical charts and have learned the muscles I have given much attention. Ball Going a-Begging.

A place in which to hold the inaugural ball has not been found, and until Con-gress takes action, it will not be cor-tain whether there will be one. The bail, heretofore, has been held in the Pension Office buildins, said to be the largest brick house in the world. There is opposition to allowing the use of this building, and stronger opposition to permitting the use of the Capitol or Congressional Library for the purpose of revelry. The matter is up in the air, and Congress will be urged to take immediate action on the reassembling of Congress to-morrow. Contributions to the inaugural fund are coming in rapidly. A great deal of money will be spent in making Washington attractive at the period when Mr. Roosevelt enters upon the first term, for which he was chosen by popular vote, but it is hoped that there will be much more spent in Washington by visitors than by those who are arranging for their enterialment. Windows of the avenue and other streets along which the inaugural procession will move are in demand already, and before the end of next month the demand will increase greatly. As much as two hundred dollars for double windows has been gold in times past and the prices this year will not be lower than in former years.

Question of Pensions.

Question of Pensions.

There is a strong movement on foot to secure the passage of legislation providing for the retirement of civil employes of the government with a point of the strong when the civil employers of the government with a point of the strong when when the civil end of the strong when the strong ployes of the government with a pour-sion when they arrive at an age to be fixed by law. Of course, such a schema is not new, but it is certain that the movement is better organized and more powerful now than ever before. It is not at all unlikely that the main attempt to secure such legislation, will be made perform military duty, is unanimous, but it is hard to find a member of Congress or a senator who believes that men who have spent all their lives in the service of the government in a civil capacity, should be retired with a pension when they are no longer able to discharge their duties. These government positions are sought after with the utmost persistency. They must be regarded in the great majority of instances as "snaps," very little work and pay higher than that which would be received if the official were in private employ. After a life-time spont in the service of the government, drawing "easy money," the manifest unfairness of pensioning the superannuated employe has in times past appealed to all men irrespective of party.

The injustice of allowing men who are on the army pension rolls to occupy government positions at good salaries is admitted on all hands, yet the practice is common. A Union veteran called my attention last night to an instance in which an old soldier, drawing a pension of $30 a month, also has a place in one of the departments at $1,000 a year, In another case an old solder draws a pension of $55 a month, draws a salary as a clerk in the department of $100 a month, and his wife draws a salary of $1,000 a year as a clerk in another department. It may not be possible to specify the exact nature of the injustice of such a case, but as a cierk in another copartment. Indigostion, Jaundice, Dropsy, Bruptions of the Skin, Discases of the fidneys and Bladder and all other nared complaints which arise from a Diseased Liver and Stomach.
If the bowels are costive, the countenance sallow, and the tongud furred, take three pills on going to hed.
For ordinary Bilious Complaints,
one or two doses is sufficient.
In cases where the lungs are of-

one or two doses is sufficient.

In cases where the lungs are effected and the pills are required, the patient should take them in small quantities, just enough to keep the bowels easy. In some cases it only requires half a pill a night, and sometimes half a pill a night, and sometimes half a one every other night. In this way the liver can be corrected without weakening the patient, and, in many instances, assist materially in eradicating pulmonary affections.
